Conclusion

(main paragraph)

Madchef and Terracotta are two famous restaurants in my area which differ in terms of ambience, food items and cost. Firstly, the ambiances of these two restaurants are dissimilar. Madchef has a western ambience whereas Terracotta is traditional. Moreover, the food items of Madchef and Terracotta vary. Madchef serves western food items such as burger, pasta while Terracotta is well-known for providing traditional food items such as rice, mashed potato and fish curry. Finally, the two popular restaurants contrast with regard to cost. While Madchef is more suitable for rich people, Terracotta offers food items priced in the mid to high range which makes the food more accessible to middle class people. To conclude, though both restaurants are well-known in my locality, they contrast in some aspects.
